The scene: The 31st running of The Corduroy National Enduro

The time: September 8-9, 1984

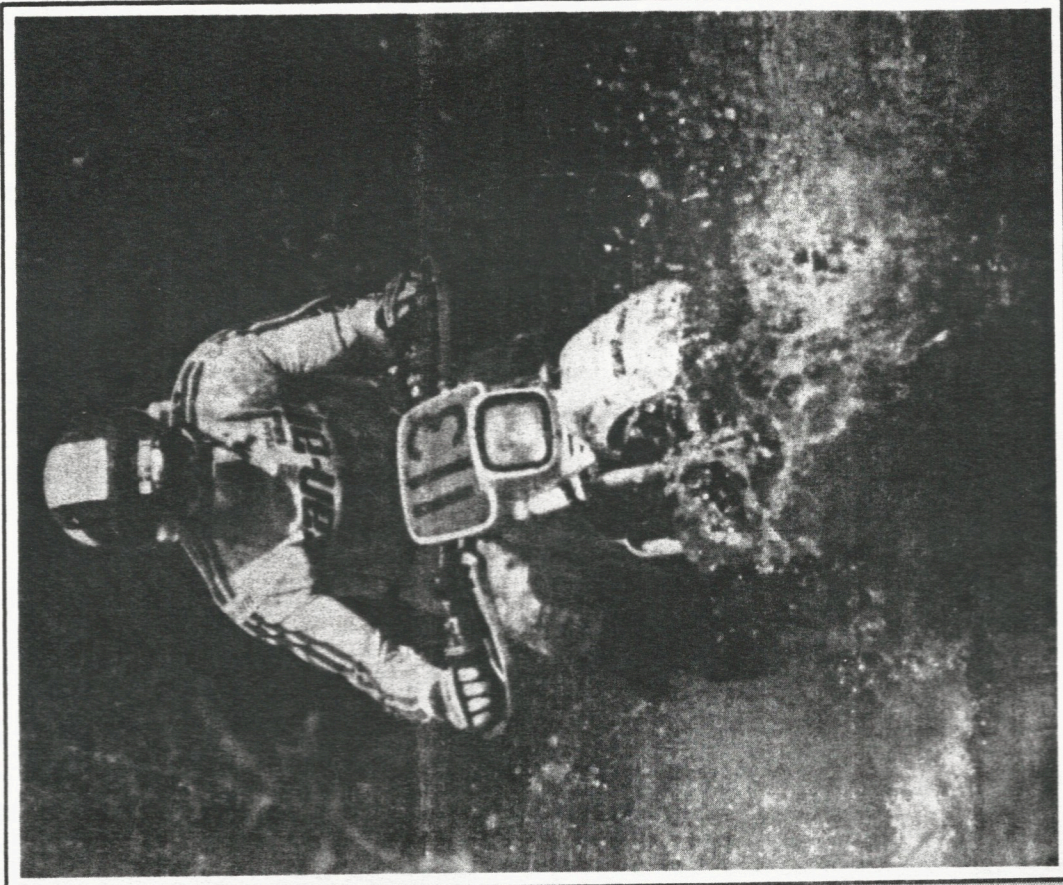

The talk: THE CAN-AM CONNECTION

Blair Sharpless, once again, emerged, from the over two hundred entries, to take the victory at the 'grand-daddy' of Canadian enduros.

However, Can-Am's domination did not end there. While Blair was piloting his new 250 liquid cooled ASE enduro to the winner's podium, teammates Steve Langdon and Frank Sutton were busy proving Can-Am's worth over the 250 miles of wild and rocky trails.

The result: CAN-AM 1, 2, 3.

We call that a clean sweep! You can call your Can-Am dealer and get the goods on the '85's, or better yet come and test ride them at the Big Valley Hare Scramble November 4, 1984.
